Language of the PhD Programme		Italian and English
Mandatory stay abroad		Yes (3 months)
Research topics
The PhD Program's distinctive topic is the relationship between well-being and lifestyles in its unitary complexity. Such relationship defines a research field with both a strongly cohesive content and an intrinsic openness to multi-disciplinary approaches (as it is increasingly required by our contemporaneity, where life quality's various aspects are tightly and osmotically interrelated). Hence, the research projects will have to develop the general theme according to one of the following areas: 1) Pharmacy, Nutritional Sciences, Sport Sciences and Physical Exercise area (focus on well-being promotion and health protection): Integrated strategies to preserve the well-being of various population groups; Research and development of drug for health protection and of cosmetic products; Biomarker analysis for monitoring the well-being status; Risk assessment of hazardous exposures and unhealthy lifestyles; Metabolism and nutrition; Physical activity, physical exercise and sports. 2) Educational Sciences and Humanities area (focus on the analysis and the promotion of lifestyles in globalized society): Processes of culture's teaching and learning in relation to childhood, human movement and embodiment; Education to both individual and social well-being factors in current reality (social justice, diversity, global citizenship, fragility management); Processes of constitution and diffusion of lifestyles in contemporaneity, following the determination of symbolic values (according to the exemplary logic of fashion analysed by Fashion studies) and the development of aestheticization factors (social aesthetics). In order to address this complex unitary research approach, the various research topics will be developed by stressing those "soft-skills" components that allow to locate rigorous disciplinary investigations exactly into the horizon where, today, extremely useful answers for the promotion of well-being can emerge.
