

Bio

Gerardo Patriotta is a Professor of Organization Studies at the Warwick Business School. His work has combined sociological and organizational theory to understand the work practices and behaviours of, amongst others, shopfloor operators, courtrooms judges, business consultants, global bank managers, air force pilots, e-markets sellers, and news workers. He is General Editor at the Journal of Management Studies and serves on the editorial boards of the Academy of Management Review and Organization Studies.