

Evelyn Sarah Baillie

Affiliation

School of Veterinary Science, University of Bristol, UK.

Biography

Sarah Baillie (MRCVS) is a senior lecturer at The Royal Veterinary College, London, United Kingdom. She received her veterinary degree from the University of Bristol in 1986 and worked as a veterinarian in general practice for 20 years. She earned her master's and doctorate degrees in computing science in 2003 and 2006, respectively, from the University of Glasgow. She is the creator of several haptic simulators, including the Haptic Cow, now widely used in veterinary training. Her research interests include validation of haptic simulators, psychophysics, and contextualized simulation. She has received several awards for her work in education and with haptic simulators including the Times Higher Education Awards Most Innovative Teacher of the Year 2009 and was one of the UKRC's Women of Outstanding Achievement in Science, Engineering, and Technology in 2010