Riepilogo

I hold a Master's Degree in International Relations and Diplomatic Affairs, with a special cluster in International Politics and Security. My education has made me aware of the complexity of global politics and economics and allowed me to acquire many useful tools in order to understand international affairs. I am particularly concerned with Middle East politics, as proven by my Master's dissertation on the Arab-Israeli conflict and the role of Jordan water resources. I am a proficient user of Microsoft Office platform (Word, Excel, Power Point, exc.) and I have remarkable communication skills gained through my studies abroad under the Erasmus+ Programme.
