

Riikka Suhonen

Biography

Currently a doctoral candidate in the Doctoral Programme in School, Education, Society and Culture (SEDUCE), Faculty of Educational Sciences at the University of Helsinki.

In my PhD research, I will examine how global citizenship education is understood and enacted in the context of upper secondary vocational education and training. A particular focus of this qualitative, empirical research will be on exploring the pedagogical potential of controversial issues (eg. extremism, climate change or migration) when developing global citizenship competences among vocational students.
