JOINT MASTER'S DEGREE IN INTERNATIONAL SECURITY STUDIES

University of Trento & Sant'Anna School of Advanced Studies | Italy

Final grade: 110/110

Thesis:

China's Hybrid Warfare Strategies in the South China Sea: A Realist - Constructivist Approach

The Master of Arts in International Security Studies (MISS) aims to prepare a new generation of analysts, policymakers, and scholars to address contemporary national and international security challenges. The course adopts a multi-disciplinary approach, which provides students with solid knowledge of the core theories, analytical frameworks, and tools. Participants will acquire the theoretical tools and competencies that are necessary to understand and assess the various factors and actors capable of impacting the global order, with specific reference to security issues.

Building on a strong multi-disciplinary approach, the courses offered during the first year of attendance in Pisa address topics such as:

- Introduction to Security Studies: concepts, methods and issue areas.
- The role of universal and regional organizations in promoting peace and security.
- Genealogies and aporias of security from a philosophical perspective.
- Armed conflicts and international Law.
- Probability, certainty and security in economics.
- Transnational global governance.
- Ethics of security.
- European security: politics and policies.
