

Resume of Mir Ahmad Joyenda,

Phone

E

---

Bio-Data

Name: Mir Ahmad Joyenda

Father Name: Mir Ahmad Joyenda

Place of Birth: Kabul, Afghanistan

Marital Status: Married

Academic Background

1978: Master of Ancient History, Archeology, Allahabad University, India

1972: Bachelorette of Journalism, Kabul University,

Working Experience

2010 to 2017:

Deputy Director for Communication and advocacy, Afghanistan Research and Evaluation Unit (AREU)

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Supporting the developing implementation of an aligned policy, advocacy, and program resource mobilization strategy for Afghanistan Research and Evaluation Unit ( AREU)
- Leading organization political approving of the senior leadership of governmental official to the coordination of AREU
- Developing and expanding relations with decision-makers and their influencers to build and maintain AREU for advocacy and campaigning priorities.
- Developing and implementing a thorough and practical communications strategy for AREU studies.
- Target and actively disseminate research findings through media, including social media, other creative means of information dissemination, and events utilizing different presentation formats (e.g. Policy notes).
- Team develop appropriate means of direct advocacy or empowering civil society to engage in indirect advocacy of AREU research findings.
- Identify tailored communication and advocacy methods for AREU re-search.
- Maintaining and expanding outreach in the provinces through partnerships with other organizations.
- Supporting research teams in playing an active and strategic role in presenting their research findings in a comprehensive and compelling ways
- Preparing, editing and producing AREU publications and reports
- Overseeing the production of AREU publications to ensure that they are produced at high quality in a timely way and reached to targeted audience
- Supervising and supporting the publications team
- Staying on current policy programming environment related to AREU's research areas.

- As necessary, represent the work of AREU on working groups, policy consultative groups, and at meetings.
- Capacity building and institutional development
- Contributing to AREU's annual planning exercises.
- Contributing to the ongoing training, mentoring and professional development of junior research staff.
- Supporting the development of intellectual space and a culture of learning at AREU.
- Keeping up to date with the various policies related to the assigned strategic themes of AREU and programming environment in Afghanistan.

2005 to 2010

Member of Afghanistan Parliament, Deputy Chairman of International Relations Committee

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Committees (especially international relation committee) oversight and general practices are improved based on sharing experiences and good practices from other parliaments;
- Conducted capacity development needs of parliamentary international committees regarding the diplomatic behaviors
- Developed the sustainable systems, processes and tools to oversight the government performance, programs and budget execution as per government best practices;
- Public listening and consultation processes (including with national/local government agencies, National and international NGOS, media, civil society organizations, community groups, individual citizens, experts, and vulnerable groups
- Developed planning for improvements to current work planning
- Contacted to members of other country parliaments to work and to work for peace and stability of Afghanistan
- Worked in close relation with Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Afghanistan, to develop international policy and guideline within diplomatic affairs to foreign countries
- Recommended concrete, clear and specific recommendations for the government performance and standards
- Proposed roles and responsibilities of different international stakeholders, governments and international organizations in according the government international policies implications
- Reviewed the relevant legal documentation which will be provided by the government of Afghanistan and Ministry of Foreign Affairs.
- The committees ensure the appropriate follow-up to resolutions and recommendations adopted by the International Committee of parliament and covered by their specific terms of reference during the approval and implementation of law
- Committee organized conferences and other events on matters within their specific terms of reference and which are linked to their work program

2002 to 2005

Deputy Director of Afghanistan Research and Evaluation Unit (AREU), Kabul

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Supporting the developing implementation of an aligned policy, advocacy, and program resource mobilization strategy for Afghanistan Research and Evaluation Unit ( AREU)
- Leading organization political approving of the senior leadership of governmental official to the coordination of AREU
- Developing and expanding relations with decision-makers and their influencers to build and maintain AREU for advocacy and campaigning priorities.
- Developing and implementing a thorough and practical communications strategy for AREU studies.
- Target and actively disseminate research findings through media, including social media, other creative means of information dissemination, and events utilizing different presentation formats (e.g. Policy notes).
- Team develop appropriate means of direct advocacy or empowering civil society to engage in indirect advocacy of AREU research findings.
- Identify tailored communication and advocacy methods for AREU re-search.
- Maintaining and expanding outreach in the provinces through partnerships with other organizations.
- Supporting research teams in playing an active and strategic role in presenting their research findings in a comprehensive and compelling ways
- Preparing, editing and producing AREU publications and reports
- Overseeing the production of AREU publications to ensure that they are produced at high quality in a timely way and reached to targeted audience
- Supervising and supporting the publications team
- Staying on current policy programming environment related to AREU's research areas.
- As necessary, represent the work of AREU on working groups, policy consultative groups, and at meetings.
- Capacity building and institutional development
- Contributing to AREU's annual planning exercises.
- Contributing to the ongoing training, mentoring and professional development of junior research staff.
- Supporting the development of intellectual space and a culture of learning at AREU.
- Keeping up to date with the various policies related to the assigned strategic themes of AREU and programming environment in Afghanistan.

2002 - 2005:

Lecturer of Social Science Faculty of, Archeology, Kabul University

Duties and Responsibilities:

Lecturing and practical work on following topics but not limited to:

- Introduction to Anthropology, concept of Anthropology, types of anthropology Archaeology, Biological Anthropology, Cultural Anthropology, Linguistic Anthropology, Anthropology Employment, Human Life & Possibility, Biological Anthropology: Human Nature, Race, Evolution, Archaeology: Domestication, Agriculture, Civilization, Cultural Anthropology: Culture, Cultures, & Cultural Relativism
- Introduction to Archeology , classical, or historical, archaeology and anthropological, or prehistoric, archaeology.

- Types of Archaeology, the variety types of Archaeology such as Classical Archaeology, Historical Archaeology, Underwater Archaeology. Ethno-Archaeology
- Archaeological Time Periods: Lecturing on the eight distinct periods of archeology: Stone Age, Chalcolithic, Bronze Age, Iron Age, Hellenistic: Roman, Byzantine, Islamic: AD and - today
- Archaeology Techniques, Pillars of Archaeological Method, The Big Dig, Scientific Methods, Chronological Methods, Archaeology Layers and Positions, Stratification and Commerce, Pottery Analysis, Genetics and Linguistics, Modern Archaeological Techniques, Dating Methods in Archaeology, Carbon 14 Dating, Thermoluminescence and Optically Stimulated Luminescence.
- Methods of Excavation , field archaeology survey, Preparing to the excavation Site, the basics of modern archaeological excavation: Research excavation and Development-led excavation, test pits excavation, using hand instrument taking cautions and careful trowels, shovels, and various other tools. What is careful Documentation , how the artifacts and mapped and documented are important, handling , transferring and preserving excavated material from the site to base and to national museums.

2001 to 2002 :

Deputy Director of Strategic Monitoring Unit (SMU)

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Responsible for providing technical leadership and innovation in all forms of Strategic Information related to program service delivery for the UN and Government of Afghanistan. Strategic
- Coordinated with the Government of Afghanistan and United National Agencies and reported to Project Director to ensure that service delivery programs are well monitored and evaluated, with appropriate indicators of success, impact measurements, and communication of results to the donor, government, and partners.
- Provided SMU technical leadership, lead the SM unit team's capacity building efforts for field programs and civil society organization partners, and transfer SM technical capacity to local partners.
- Advised on appropriate monitoring designs and strategies for government systems that improve tracking of results.
- Served as a primary contact person for SM related technical support, including but not limited to providing advice, guidance, and coordination to United National and implementing partners, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and other collaborating organizations in the implementation and strengthening of M&E systems for SMU program activities supported by SMU
- Develop and/or coordinate performance monitoring plans that reflect work plans and their indicators including M&E system, QA/QI, surveillance, data analysis and data use to as determined by the SMU program.
- Manage M&E activities related to the performance of programs, including M&E design; selection and measurement of appropriate indicators; development of appropriate M&E recording and reporting forms and mechanisms; data quality assurance processes and