It has been conducted a qualitative analysis aimed at identifying the barriers and enabling factors for the mainstreaming of Nature-Based Solutions for disaster risk reduction. Three dimensions have been explored: the social-ecological context; the policy and governance framework at different level (international, european, italian, hydro-graphic and regional) and specific features of NBSs. The results were based on the analysis of the policy framework, databases and reports, in-depth interviews conducted with experts in the field and two focus groups.
