

Curriculum Vitae

Vasilis Avdikos

Vasilis Avdikos is Vice Rector for Research and Lifelong Learning at Panteion University of Social and Political Sciences and Associate Professor at the Department of Economic and Regional Development. He studied at the University of Piraeus and did postgraduate studies at the University of Strathclyde, while he received his PhD from the University of Sheffield. His research interests are spatial inequalities, alternative forms of development, social economy and the commons, and creative economy and labour. He has published research papers in several scientific journals in the field of economic and urban geography, regional development and cultural studies, while he has edited three collective volumes. He has extensive research experience, having participated as principal investigator in research programs of the European Commission (Horizon Europe, Marie Skłodowska Curie ITN, Interreg, Urban Innovative Actions) and national bodies (HFRI, IKY), while he has provided consulting services to public bodies and organizations of local government.