Universities of Florence, Pisa and Siena
- Dissertation: "An empirical study on the relationship between technological innovation and the task structure of jobs"
 - Dissertation committee: Filippo Belloc, Andrea Mina, Rafael Muñoz de Bustillo Llorente,
 - Doctoral advisor: Francesca Bettio
 - The thesis is an empirical study on the impact of technological innovation on employment and job characteristics. The three chapters are divided into: 1 descriptive statistic of the evolution of job tasks (European Working Condition Survey data); 2 an econometric approach about the impact of computerization on the task structure of jobs (EWCS data; fixed-effects model, fractional response model and instrumental variable); 3 an econometric approach on a regional level (NUTS 2 European regions) on the impact of routine jobs on the polarization of regional labor markets (EWCS and Labor Force Survey data; OLS model).
- 2012 → 2015 Master Degree
Università Alma Mater Studiorum Bologna
- International relations and diplomatic affairs
 - Final mark 110L/110
 - Supervisor: prof. Hartmut Lehmann
 - Thesis: Flexibilization in labour market institutions. An econometric analysis of the impact of flexibilization policies on employment and inequalities in OECD countries (using OECD data, in particular the Employment Protection Legislation – EPL index; fixed-effects model).
- 2009 → 2012 Bachelor's Degree
Università Alma Mater Studiorum Bologna
- Political and organizational sciences
 - Final mark 104/110
 - Thesis: Democratic crisis in the economic crisis
