-1991- Research on the characteristics and importance of production surplus statement in the small and medium-sized business, coordinated by Professor Antonio Maticena.

-1992- Theoretical and practical research into the reporting method in local authority companies, coordinated by Professor Giuseppe Farneti.

-1993- Theoretical and practical research into new systems of analytical accounting, and particularly into “new” calculation methods of product cost (activity-based costing) in the small to medium-sized business, coordinated by Professors Giuseppe Farneti and Stefano Marasca.

-1994- Research into the quality of auditing in public companies, coordinated by Professor Luciano Marchi.

-1995- Research into management control in companies which provide public services, coordinated by Professors Antonio Maticena and Luciano Marchi, culminating, first of all, in the doctoral dissertation and, later, in the publication of the first monograph.

-1996- “Osservatorio sui bilanci dei comuni della provincia di Rimini” (Translation: Observatory of the local authority budgets in the Province of Rimini), for analysing the final statements of accounts of the Province municipalities from 1992 until today. The research, which is supported by the (Italian) Home Office, has the aim of pinpointing, in the first phase, the changing of the relationship between incomings and the outgoings of the local authorities which are part of the Province of Rimini and is moreover aimed, in its second phase, at calculating, by using meaningful indicators, the impact of the activities of the local authorities upon the area in which they operate. Prof. Antonio Maticena e Prof. Attilio Gardini and Baldarelli as coordinator for the faculty of Economics - Rimini Campus.

-1997- Research on analysis of the management circuits, the information system for management control and the budgetary information-accounting system of Italian and international tourist agencies and tour operators. The research aims to, on the one hand, study the evolution of roles that these companies have assumed through time, on the bases of environmental change and especially in relation to the evolution of information technologies and how this has meant a progressive passage from the organisational phase of the trip, to the phase of advising the tourist himself. Besides, the research project has the aim of combining this evolution with the role which the intangible resources assume in the management of these companies and which ways of representation are in the summary accounting records: managerial and required by the law . The scientific point of reference for the work is Professor Antonio Maticena. The initial results of the research work have been published in an essay on operational circuits, management schemes and financial yearly statement of such companies, in the course of the year 2000.

-1998- Research concerning the preliminary aspects which regard the evaluation phase of the “Osservatorio sui bilanci dei comuni della provincia di Rimini” (Translation: Observatory of the local authority budgets in the Province of Rimini). This second phase, has the objective of pinpointing a reading key of the local authorities' financial accounts throughout the Province of Rimini, which allows us to understand the impact of local authority activity on the Province, while paying attention to the measures of budget behaviour of the public body. Measures which express strategic choices. Besides, the research work aims to highlight, as relating to the context at hand, specific indicators directed at better interpreting impact, upon the area, in terms of satisfying the quality of needs, through the analysis of combined budgets in various, similar local authority areas. Prof. Antonio Maticena e Prof. Attilio Gardini and Baldarelli as coordinator for the faculty of Economics - Rimini Campus.

-1999- Research directed at analysing and verifying the applying of the Economy of Sharing throughout tourist companies and, particularly, at identifying the most appropriate information instruments for the management control of such kinds of businesses including in it also those “particular” ethical aspects, which influence their management. The research work is coordinated by Professors Antonio Maticena and Lia Varia Fortunati while collaborating with Professor Linda B. Specht of Trinity University, Texas, USA.

-2000-2002- Former government-funded “40%” research- PRIN – Universities involved: the University of Siena (Professors Angelo Riccaboni and Roberto di Pietra) – the University of Verona (Professors Giuseppe Bruni, Giuseppe Ceriani and Bettina Campedelli) – the University of Bologna (Professors Gianfranco Capodaglio, Antonio Maticena and Paolo Bastia) – regarding the harmonising of auditing principles throughout Europe for those countries that have applied for membership of the EU – national scientific coordinator is Professor Gianfranco Capodaglio. In particular, we were interested in the harmonisation of the annual financial statement of Slovakia and it involves certain Professors from the University of Bratislava: Professors Ana Slosarova and Renata Yurikova.

-2000-2003- “Osservatorio sui bilanci dei comuni della provincia di Rimini” (Translation: Observatory of the local authority budgets in the Province of Rimini) research – scientific coordinator Professor Attilio Gardini – which flows into the analysis of the social effectiveness of services provided by the municipalities of the Province of Rimini, with analysis in the field of the degree of usage of social responsibility within the municipalities themselves.

-2002-2005- Scientific responsibility for the Faculty of Economics-Rimini of Project: "E-qual Observatory on Social Economics". The project represents one important portion of the main E-Equal project that EU financed to the Province of Rimini. The project proposes a careful analysis of demand and offer of labour especially for disadvantaged subjects, in the broadest sense of the word, in order to create, in three years, new labour opportunities, even the ad hoc constitution of new business, for those subjects with different abilities throughout the area of the Province of Rimini. The project, for which the undersigned is in charge for the Faculty of Economics, was initiated at the beginning of July 2002 and lasts for three years. Following the project, various factors of Civil Economics in the Province of Rimini were analysed, among which are: the social cooperatives, the Volunteer associations, the foundations, even some Italian and international best practice businesses. There is one specific resource dedicated to the project : Phd students coordinated by Baldarelli.

-2004- Former university-funded “60%” Research – scientific point of reference Professor Maticena – on the analysis of businesses which are part of the Civil Economics as an open category: mission, governance and accountability. The project has the aim of analysing, from the viewpoint of theory and empiricism, the businesses that take part in “Civil Economics”, both private and public businesses, singling out the characteristics of what makes a business so, wherever necessary, and focusing their specific characteristics in defining objectives, in the methods of governing as well as in the methods of external accounting. Such an economic “category”, as things stand at the moment, includes two great types of business: the NPO (non profit-making organisation) and those businesses that participate in the Economy of Sharing in Freedom, characterised by being profit-making companies, numbering approximately 750 throughout the whole world.

-2004- Research: “Il passaggio dall'etica oggettiva all'etica strategica: il ruolo dell'accountability” (Translation: The passage from objective ethics to strategic ethics: the role of accountability) – person in charge is: Professor Baldarelli. The aim of the project is to reflect upon the passage from objective ethics to strategic ethics, primary element to be able to prevent situations that we have talked about a little beforehand. Such a passage is to be analysed using theoretical and empirical investigation. Theoretical investigation includes searching through national and international business literature in order to understand if this type of passage is considered a necessity and, also, to what extent is this phenomenon displayed. Field analysis, already preliminarily started by way of my first degree thesis, aims at verifying the existence of such issues, especially in reference to the role of accountability in the business. The theoretical and empirical analyses are directed towards verifying the consequences of such behaviour on the accounting instruments, whether compulsory or voluntary, in the various stages necessary to plan them, not forgetting the important passage that is taking place in the acknowledgement of international accounting principles as guide for preparing summary accounting records. Research is financed by Polo of Rimini .

-2005-2007- Research on the implementation of social responsibility in Civil Economics businesses. The aim of the project consists in analysing the degree to which social responsibility has been put into operation in Italian businesses, by way of analysing the passages which have come true, from the theoretical point of view on a national and international level, verifying, on an empirical level, the degree to which social responsibility as strategic quality has been put into operation. The research work will be carried out, from a theoretical and empirical point of view, upon the methodologies through which social responsibility is weaved into the definition of aims and objectives, into the methods of governing and external accounting prevalently in the profit-making businesses, but also too in the NPOs, and how this leads to eventual changes in the strategic procedure of businesses. Theoretical and empirical analysis are aimed at verifying the consequences of such behaviour upon accounting instruments, whether they be obligatory or voluntary, in the various stages necessary to plan them, never forgetting the important passage that is taking place in the acknowledgement of international accounting principles as guide for preparing summary accounting records. The research also foresees a further stage, which happens at the same time as the first one, I mean, a parallel analysis of how the Libro Verde (Green Paper) is put into action in businesses that already belong to a “socially responsible” project, like those ones that take part in the Economy of Sharing. The project, with its aims thus formulated, looks to, in the future, involve other European and American universities, in order to compare the strategic implementation of social responsibility in different business sectors and cultures. National scientific coordinator – Professor Antonio Matacena (University of Bologna), other universities involved: the University of Bergamo (Professor Gianfranco Rusconi); the University of Catania (Professor Margherita Poselli and Professor Pasquale Arena); the University of Bologna – Rimini campus (Professors Claudio Travaglini and Maria-Gabriella Baldarelli).

-2005-2006- Research on: Social responsibility and Church Social Doctrine in defining business mission, governance and accountability. This research comes out of the fact that we meet, from the theoretical and empirical point of view, a need to deepen the relationship that exists between social responsibility and Church Social Doctrine, starting from the Catholic Church, since we are rediscovering the importance that business wields while leaning upon an ethical basis. Aims of the project include analysing, in the theory and the practice of businesses, how, at the present time the relationship between Social responsibility and Church Social Doctrine influences the definition of business aims, the practice of government and the practice of accounting / external communication. All this, starting from the area of the Rimini province will be extended to Italy and eventually to other European and extra-European countries. The analysis general method consists in a theoretical recognition of theory and statistical analyses using questionnaires, interviews, business visits, etc. roundtable discussions, meetings and debates. Other universities involved: the University of Bologna (Professors Stefano Zamagni and Maria-Gabriella Baldarelli; the University of Milan Bicocca (Professor Luigino Bruni); the S.
