

SARA Chinaglia

Ph.D student

Languages

Italian mother tongue

English ●●●●●

French ●●●●○

Spanish ●●●○○

Summary

My vocation is the study and preservation of nature. Therefore, after an economic education, I decided to attend a PhD program totally devoted to the study of climate change and societal challenges.

I believe the only way to open skeptical and confused eyes towards the reality of climate change is to communicate in a simple and optimistic way.

I'm pursuing the career of academic research and scientific dissemination.

 Bologna, Italy

 sara.chinaglia2@unibo.it

 +39 3469493081

EDUCATION

2016-present University of Bologna

- 2020- present: Ph.D. Fellow Future Earth, Climate Change and Societal Challenges
- 2016-2019 M.Sc. in Economic Policy | Finl grade: 110/110 cum laude

2017-2018 Abroad experiences

- 2018: Peter the Great St. Petersburg Polytechnic: abroad semester
- 2017: NHH – Bergen: Summer school

2013-2016 University of Padua

- Bachelor degree in economics and management

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Present Freelance scientific disseminator

- Relator in webinar and seminars and author of articles in the field of climate change and environmental education.

2020 Nomisma S.p.A. – Bologna (IT)

- Activity of support and management of sustainability related projects and conduction of research studies. Working with both public and private entities.

2018-2019 Open Innovation Program at SUGAR Network for Design Thinking / Alma Cube (Bologna)

- Part of an interdisciplinary design thinking team (8 students from Italy and Japan) working with SUGAR network based in California (Stanford University) creating innovative solution for Poggipolini S.r.l. | Business trips in China, Japan, USA.

SKILLS

S Public speaking
O Self-management
f Problem solving and strategical thinking
t Creativity
 Empathy
 Research and information management

H STATA
a Gretl
r Gimp
d Microsoft Office
 Photoshop
 Lightroom